Overview:

It is distributed nationally to the inbox of over 1300 career practitioners working with clients in educational institutions, business and government organisations and private counselling practice.

Advertising with the CDAA:

The CDAA e-bulletin is a very cost effective and convenient method for advertisers to directly reach CDAA members on a regular or frequent basis as well as once-off. Please note that all products or services advertised should be suitable for career practitioners nationally, either to use directly, or for their clients' use.
