Presentation: When does Career Counselling need Psychological referral?

Jan West is a leading Psychologist and well experienced in dealing with people that require more than Career Counselling. She will identify the common signs of need and how to address when to refer. That difficult process of identifying when we cannot take our candidates further without specialist qualified help. But still seeking to maintain credibility with the client. Jan will explain what she can do with those clients and probable outcomes. She will guide us in recognising signs and symptoms and how to explain the additional help need, to the client.
