Three Fab Ladies to present Three Cool Career Tools

3 February 2016

Three respected Australian career specialists will be heading a one off presentation in Adelaide this month.

Judy Denham, who directs WA based career guidance software company Career Solutions, will join Adelaide career consultants Catherine Cunningham and Fran Whittingham as presenters.

Held on Saturday, February 20 at Campbelltown Library, the presenters will share their expertise on assessment tools widely used by career development practitioners – Myers Briggs, Harrison Assessments Talent Solutions and CareerWorks.

Career practitioners - who help manage their clients' careers, make occupational and study decisions, plan career transitions and find career information – are often based in TAFEs, universities, employment services, government and private practice.

Event organiser and Career Development Association of Australia SA Division president Caroline Cleland said the workshop will be valuable for all career practitioners and those interested in career development.

“These assessment tools are about providing career practitioners with in-depth information about their clients to help them find the best life and work decisions,” Ms Cleland said.

“The Myers Briggs assessment tool for example is a widely used personality test. But for this workshop it will be all about learning how to use it to match personality preferences to be happier at work.”

Personal laptops are recommended for the workshop but not required.
